

Data you can count on: Optimize your programs with an expert-level analytics audit.

A comprehensive web analytics framework that inspires confidence across your organization is within your reach.

Skewed or inaccurate data is the by-product of many of today's web analytics installations.

Optimize your web analytics foundation through a comprehensive audit from Cardinal Path.

Start generating confident, actionable recommendations for performance improvement.

Can you trust your web analytics data?

Some of the biggest issues in analytics today are a result of implementation errors. A web analytics implementation needs to be treated like a software development project, and must be subjected to the same scrutiny and testing to make sure it has been done correctly. Very few organizations can attest to having followed best-practices that enable their team members to make confident decisions. Through experience in thousands of client projects, we've found that the majority of web analytics installations struggle with some significant gaps that can be fixed with the right guidance. Cardinal Path's audit of your analytics and implementation provides a comprehensive, structured review of your web analytics solution through two lenses—business and technical—to boost your decision-making capabilities.

- Business: Our audit ensures that your Google Analytics or Adobe Analytics setup is configured to address the business objectives that are important to you. We look at your organizational goals and the digital KPIs you've established to ensure that the analytics are identifying the right data points to measure success or failure.
- Technical: A thorough review of your analytics helps inform how your analytics deployment varies from best practices and identifies opportunities for improvement.

Unlock your competitive advantage through accurate, actionable web data

Our analytics audit addresses several core challenges across a number of key marketing areas including media, creative, and communications.

- Identify the web data you need to hold your media, creative, and content teams accountable to established digital KPIs
- Identify the gaps in best practices that are preventing your organization from having access to the right data
- Establish accurate, complete, and trustworthy data to enable confident decision making
- Enable greater adoption and broader usage of data across your organization on a proven platform

Maximizing your investment

An audit is the first step in understanding how to improve upon your web analytics strategy, and Cardinal Path is committed to helping you realize your organization's potential. Each audit includes dedicated support time from our extensive roster of web analytics experts to help you act upon recommendations and begin accessing the true value of your analytics foundation.
